As a south Texas farmer, I'm concerned that these regulations may not be sufficient to protect public health and agricultural safety. The potential daily application of millions of barrels of produced water requires stringent standards to prevent the accumulation of harmful substances in soil and water. The 30-day comment window is insufficient for the public to evaluate these draft rules and echo the request a 30-day extension of the comment period to allow for more informed feedback. Please also consider in-person hearings in communities most likely to be impacted (Permian Basin, Eagle Ford, and East Texas).
