

David Todd

I am deeply concerned about proposals to apply produced water on the surface. Given the known toxicity, as well as lack of knowledge and disclosure about these waters, it is essential that full fluid and site testing be done before any permits are issued, and any permits must be developed with full transparency and full public participation, and permit recipients must have good compliance histories and bonding, with strict cleanup requirements imposed.